

TRADCHAD PROJECT

Life has no purpose and politics is meaningless power? Well, that is over.
We aim to establish a strong traditional community from an impoverished region of Africa, prove the impact of our values and raise a new epicenter of inspiration for change.

Leadership rises from respect in local communities.
So, politics evolves from ordinary people's ethical code and attitudes.
Tension, preparation, imperative to set things right – the drive of a true kingdom.

This is no charity. This is the movement, seizing the role it needs to set things right.

What needs to be Fixed (Europe 2023)

Goalless unchanging comfort. Lack of social hardship (overprotection) and abundance beyond people's dreams (modern luxury) makes people unconsciously disengage from reality.
No real actors. People don't examine the story running behind things. They are sedativized by polite faith in "democracy" and don't protect their means of standing up. NPC age ...
Economy of pride. Advanced civilization finds pride in being sophisticated. Leaders call meaningless company meetings, companies and politicians develop monumental legislative and social systems to grow in power and significance. The rise of vanity. Hard to navigate.

Summarized, society loses caution, giving other forces a free hand:
Lords can construct grand schemes secretly – using info networking, campaigns and business. This puts passionless machinators at top (Andrej Babiš, Joe Biden's gray eminences etc).
Technological corporates control social status of people, and reality in general.
People lose incentive (and cohesion!) to form well-organized movements.

But it Will be fixed (Somaliland 2025)

The West is too deeply (confusingly) networked with the sources of such problems. We need to build a new, clear, compact order from dust. Dry, desolate, poor dust of... Ethiopia?

Our main goal, is build an African community on natural values and attitudes of people, rather than raw secretive capitalism (embrace human will; adopt modernity, but rule it)

1. Authority separated from wealth – companies can freely compete on the market, but the council (=government) assigns its own trust ranking to people, unlocking many privileges (access to military planning, negotiations, court etc.)

The govt gives the ranking points to company bosses, who divide them among themselves and employees. This way, trust and authority is based on partaking in the nation's central mission led by the council – not based on raw wealth.

2. Intuitive politics – it focuses a lot on ordinary relationships / real leadership and often finds itself on the battlefield, or otherwise immersed in mud. Even poor people should sense the leaders' presence and understand their drive – if nothing else.

3. Field guard policy – rather than building prosperous comfort, we will try to be prepared physically to take action:
– first-hand (non-digital) intel and great understanding of the landscape, so we know when we ought to help someone or do something – "quickbuildpacks", ie. minimalistic preparation (of items, skills, logistics etc.) to quickly produce/organize a lot of things when needed (eg. build wooden megaboats to evac 400 ths. people from war-torn Yemen in 7 days, or something).

Focusing on guarding the region and preparing for crises will make... caution, strength and supportiveness very valued in our nation!

4. Endurance HQ – many islamists there try to force a dream of boundless empires (from S Africa to Alaska). But caution & strong Islam must be embraced, not damaging arrogance...

STRONG ISLAM

"Be mindful of Allah, settle your affairs and obey Allah."

Conquer not solely for power, but to bring order and strength: you may seek to expand and grow, but eradicate corruption and cast demons into hell wherever you go; be ready to force things right, but seek to grow stronger without conflict.

A strong mafia doesn't seek violence, but embraces force, withholds it to use it when they need to prove their conviction superior.

But some islamic groups want massive boundless power and authority (empire from Alaska to South Africa). They close themselves into fanatic arrogance in the name of Allah, so they lose caution and mindfulness.

As Christians, we strongly suspect: it is the Babylon Beast who inspires and fools them. The demon who turns social isolation and need of help into close-minded arrogance. We are convinced it is not Allah, whom we know as our God. He never told us to be violent and imperialist.

One must be mindful, realize the value and strength of others, not force them to fight by arrogantly trying to dictate over them. We insist, use reason, notice the true way to greatness: Only conquer places that need to be fixed, enforce your will merely by strength of your conviction, not by violence, and oversee any dominion you seize get stronger.

We need to push such values through, so ...

Someone must forge a council for Muslims and Christians:

Let leaders settle their affairs and question inspiration from God, instead of each group feeling destined to rule all the others. Faith can't endure without respect and gathering man's reason to find the true will of God.

The values and convictions of the council - may it happen as God decides, but for now, this is what we will bring, wherever we carry the flag:

Self-control, no impulsive violence. Believers need to hold on to their mission, so freedom-fighters should be cautious of the story and the role they play in it. We know there are movements to launch, fighting just for plunder is a waste. We can't but insist the islamists come to us and realize the true strength of God. We will enlist many of them to our cause one day.

Exchange of interests/opinions, even with the enemy. We will grant parties space to make a mark for themselves, even when everyone has cut ties with them. Shutting down talks is a very serious passive-aggressive move and our partners will recognize the severity of such a step, just like we do.

Strive, to play a role in the story, let opportunity guide you. Don't despise yourself or others for small sins, but recognize the potential. We won't let people get condemned permanently - they need that door open to act and try things again. Strength is in looking forward and understanding what you can do now.

Pain is the nature of men's life. Embracing hardship and struggle isn't "inhumane", it merely acknowledges the worth of human will (to endure and push through). Men deserve recognition for taking their duty seriously and working hard, which women don't need to do. So we won't grant women any "equality" - the gender difference will be recognized and society will decide the roles.

And Islam is the religion that holds to its convictions and takes them seriously, so we know we will grow ties with many Muslims over the course of our mission. If any religion gains a stronghold in our ranks and proves its worth there, it will be Islam.

We accept any criticism of this (see: lastguardsleft.netlify.app)
